"DADDY" BROWNING TAKES STAND

PEACHES' HUSBAND WILL GIVE ACCOUNT OF BROKEN ROMANCE

Woman Testifies How Fond Daddy Was Of Dancing

COURT HOUSE, White Plains, N. Y., Feb. 1.—Debonair and immaculately dressed, Edward W. "Daddy" Browning, fifty-two year old New York City millionaire, took the witness stand at 11:28 o'clock this morning to tell his own story of his shattered romance with his sixteen year old "wife" "Peaches" Heenan Browning.

Mrs. Elizabeth D. Farney, of Evanston, Ill., a young looking mother of two children, took the stand as the first witness today and testified that on one occasion at a dance at Kew Gardens Inn she heard Daddy tell "Peaches" he could dance with her all night. That particular evening, the witness said "Peaches" had been dancing with many other men.

Browning is said to quite a Charlestoner and "Peaches" admits she "adores" dancing. The witness said her husband is Frank J. Farney, a manufacturer of furniture. She testified it was her habit to come to New York now and then with her husband when he came on business. They invariably stopped at Kew Gardens Inn where the Brownings spent their honeymoon.

CHARGES DENIED BY FORMER ACTRESS IN LIBEL SUIT TRIAL

Lilly Langtry Wires Repudiation—Author
Stands Pat

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Lady de Bath, the former Lilly Langtry, famous English beauty and actress, came to the defense of herself and the late W. E. Gladstone, Premier of the Victorian days, when the libel action of Captain Peter Wright against Viscount Gladstone, son of the former premier, resumed today. "I strongly repudiate the slanderous accusation made against me by Peter Wright," declared the telegram from Lady de Bath, which came from Monte Carlo, and was read to the court by Norman Birkett, counsel for Viscount Gladstone who is being sued by Wright for declaring Wright to be a "liar and coward" because he wrote a book in which he charged that former Premier Gladstone, "the grand old man of liberalism," had been hypocritically immoral. During the course of the trial last week Wright openly charged in court that Lilly Langtry, now Lady de Bath, had been the mistress of Gladstone.

Later Wright declared that he was sorry to have made this statement to annoy Lady de Bath, but he refused to withdraw it. Today in the face of the denial from Lady de Bath at Monte Carlo and intimations that she might bring a libel action against Wright, his counsel again refused to withdraw.

Sullivan, Massachusetts swimmer attempting to cross to Catalina Island for the second time was forced to give up his attempt late last night because of a heavy fog which descended over the channel just as he was on the verge of success, according to an unconfirmed report received here early today. Sullivan, it is thought, was picked up by his dory and taken back to Catalina Island. Harbor authorities are attempting to confirm the report.

OHIO FARMERS HAVE SANEST LEADERSHIP SAYS JARDINE

Co-operative Buying And Selling Only Hope Of Farmers, Secretary Of Agriculture Says
At Columbus.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 1.—"Bik business" methods for farmers of America's relief from low returns rather than government legislation today was favored by W. M. Jardine, Secretary of Agriculture, in his address to 2,500 Ohio farmers attending the second day session of fifteenth annual farmers week at Ohio State University. "Ohio farmers have the sanest leadership in America," Jardine told his audience. "These men realize that the Haugen-McNary or the Curtis-Crisp bills under discussion in congress cannot help many farmers to a great extent. The only hope for the farmer is to organize into co-operative buying and selling groups."

"The farmer today finds himself in about the same condition that the thousands of American manufacturers found themselves fifty years ago. They obtained relief, through organization and co-operation, finally evolving into the great corporations found in the United States today. They were not 'legislated' into this position, the same condition confronts the farmer."

"Of course the 'corporation idea' for farmers," the secretary continued, "is not approved by me, but an organization of farmers with the

CLASH OVER STATES RIGHTS LOOMS OVER SMITH EXCLUSION

Public May Decide Dispute If Senate Stands
Pat

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The greatest constitutional clash between the federal government and the states of the union over their constitutional rights since the Civil War loomed today as the probable outcome if the senate permanently excludes Col. Frank L. Smith and Rep. William S. Vare from its membership.

The clash may never be settled judicially, even though both Smith and Vare carry their rights into the courts, but the ultimate verdict undoubtedly will be rendered by America's court of last resort—the court of public opinion, as expressed at elections. This became certain when friends of both senatorial nominees declared they would carry their fight for vindication into senatorial campaigns in other states, if they are barred from the senate.

The question of excluding Smith probably will come before the senate for the second time within the next two weeks. A poll by International News Service revealed the senate elections committee favorably inclined toward endorsing the plea of Smith that he might be seated at once. Of the committee's thirteen members, eight either voted or were paired in favor of seating Smith when he first presented his credentials. Only five voted against giving the oath of office.

The committee drafts a report, when it meets tomorrow, urging the immediate seating of Smith, it will prove a new fight on the floor of the senate. All indications however point to the senate again denying the oath of office, although the majority may not be as great as before. The committee then will investigate the charges against him, before filing a final report, which may not reach the senate until just before the March 4 adjournment.

The threat of Smith's counsel that he and Rep. Vare might become "senators-at-large" for the next six years, if denied admission, meanwhile aroused only amusement among the constitutional lawyers in the senate. It was the Smith contention that, since he received his credentials from the people of Illinois, the senate could not take them away and the governor could never appoint a successor until his term expires. This contention drew as sharp contradiction from the senate's constitutional authorities as did the suggestion that the supreme court might compel the senate to admit both Smith and Vare.

There were three things the senate authorities agreed upon, regardless of party lines. These were: 1. The United States Supreme Court has no power to review any action of the senate, even though senators feel the senate acted unconstitutionally in barring Smith from his oath.

2. If Smith and Vare are excluded permanently, they can never attend sessions of the senate, vote upon legislation, even enter the chamber, or receive a salary and no court can reverse that decision.

3. The governors of Illinois and Pennsylvania can appoint legally successors to Smith and Vare, after they are excluded, if the senate at the same time declared vacancies exist in the senatorial delegations from those two states, and no court can block the appointments.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Although there was keen interest here in the report to Washington by Admiral C. S. Williams, commander of the United States Asiatic fleet, at Shanghai, that 104 Americans and 150 British nationals had either been murdered or held prisoners in the interior of China, there was nothing in the latest reports direct from Peking and Shanghai to throw any light on the admiral's statement. There were indefinite reports that the nationalists were looting foreign property along the upper Yangtze valley, which it is believed here, may have some bearing on Admiral Williams' report of British and Americans being missing in the interior.

In New Case

Charlotte Mills, daughter of the slain choir singer and central figure in the Hall-Mills case, was brought into the "Daddy"-Peaches Browning case when attorneys for Edward W. Browning, New York real estate operator, questioned her in an effort to get evidence against his wife, the former Frances Heenan.

MOONSHINER SLAIN, ANOTHER IS SOUGHT AFTER RIFLE FIGHT

Southern Ohio Hills Scene
Of Battle With Officers

PORTSMOUTH, O., Feb. 1.—One alleged moonshiner is dead here today and another is being sought in the hilly regions of upper Twin creek, twenty miles west of here, following a pitched rifle battle between four federal and state prohibition raiders, a deputy sheriff, and the dead man and his companion, late Monday.

The dead man has been identified as Dick Cooper, 22, a resident of the section where the men exchanged shots. Identity of his companion has not been divulged.

Federal raiders were Ray Brown and W. G. Davis of the Columbus district, and state inspectors C. H. Hutchinson and Elmer Farmer. They were accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Green Willis, Scioto County.

The story of the raid told by Willis is that the men were surprised about dusk Monday while they were operating a 200 gallon still in the thick underbrush. One of the moonshiners, the deputy said, opened fire. It was returned by the raiders and after a dozen shots Cooper fell with a bullet in his right side. His companion fled.

Cooper was brought to the General hospital here and arrived about 10 p. m. He died soon after midnight.

NO CONFIRMATION OF REPORT THAT MANY AMERICANS AND BRITISH SLAIN IN CHINA

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Although there was keen interest here in the report to Washington by Admiral C. S. Williams, commander of the United States Asiatic fleet, at Shanghai, that 104 Americans and 150 British nationals had either been murdered or held prisoners in the interior of China, there was nothing in the latest reports direct from Peking and Shanghai to throw any light on the admiral's statement. There were indefinite reports that the nationalists were looting foreign property along the upper Yangtze valley, which it is believed here, may have some bearing on Admiral Williams' report of British and Americans being missing in the interior.

GOVERNMENT PLANS MAY BE CHANGED AS CRISIS APPROACHES

Pessimism Noted In Official
Quarters At Washington

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Increased pessimism over the Chinese crisis was noted in every official quarter here today.

The problem was again threshed over at great length at this morning's cabinet meeting, and while the details discussed were not divulged it was reported that an immediate and wholesale evacuation of the troubled far eastern republic by Americans was seriously considered.

Such a course would be a complete about-face for the government in view of President Coolidge's recent suggestion that United States nationals in China should not be asked to abandon their property and lawful interests.

The report found credence, however, in a dispatch from Admiral C. S. Williams, commander of the Asiatic fleet, who stated that Americans were being advised to evacuate all coastal cities. There are 104 Americans supposed to be scattered about the interior where anti-foreign sentiment is strongest. Their situation today is not known.

But no matter what course the government may adopt as to evacuation, or as to the protection of property, almost half of the American holdings in China are being abandoned as fast as their owners can arrange for transportation to the seacoast. This the missionaries and others concerned have been informed that because of the difficulties in moving a military body so far inland the United States finds itself unable to afford them the protection to which they are entitled.

Considerable concern is felt here for the safety of the 104 Americans missing in the interior of China and also for Dickson H. Leans, treasurer of Yale-In-China, who was reported either kidnapped or arrested near Shanghai.

The growing storm of protest among influential Chinese against the dispatching of an extraordinary number of troops to Shanghai, is also causing the government no little worry. Although the United States is taking no marked part in this general military movement, excepting insofar as it has increased its naval strength in Chinese waters, officials here are now afraid that the Chinese may confuse the immediate issue concerning the necessity of protecting foreigners with the larger and more distant problem of correcting the evils which have arisen from the unequal treaties.

A major reason for the government's refusal to join in the British insistence to brandish a "big stick" in such a manner as to prejudice the Chinese in the matter of future treaty negotiations.

REPORTERS SHOULD KNOWN AGRICULTURE

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 1.—Students of journalism should be required to take a course in agriculture, it was a good thing for agricultural students to take a journalism course, as one method of promoting a better understanding between farmers and city dwellers, Secretary of Agriculture Jardine at the Farmers' Week at Ohio State University, declared. Not one reporter in ten who writes about agricultural matters knows what he is writing about, the secretary said.

RESCUE WORKERS DIG IN DEBRIS FOR MINE EXPLOSION VICTIMS

Four Killed When Gas Pocket Lets Go In Kentucky Shaft—Investigation Of Cause Has Been Launched

MADISONVILLE, Ky., Feb. 1.—While rescue workers today were digging through a huge pile of debris which clogged the New Hope mine of the Norton Mining Company, of Italy south of here, in an effort to retrieve additional bodies, an investigation was launched to ascertain the cause of the explosion which yesterday took four lives there. Those known dead today were: Flint Morgan, and Nolan Vaughn, white, and D. McReynolds and Walter Vernaugh, both negroes. Two others were slightly injured when the explosion, believed to have been caused by a gas pocket, occurred.

GHOSTS! Spirits Told Juror To Tell Murder Information

HENDERSON, Ky., Feb. 1.—Ghosts! Will they figure in the trial of pretty Frances Delmar Yates, widow and mother of nineteen summers, and Edward Powell, grizzled farmer of fifty-odd winters, on trial for the murder of Frances' husband, Elmer Yates, last November?

That question was uppermost in the minds of numerous spectators as they filed in to the courtroom here today eager to witness the proceedings in the most uncanny murder trial in the history of the Blue Grass state.

For yesterday every one of the twelve jurors chosen for duty in the case was asked: "Do you believe in ghosts or spirits?" "What is your opinion of possibilities of communication with the dead?" was another frequent question.

And these questions were asked, it was learned, because Edward Erwin, chief state's witness who was originally quoted by investigators as saying that "his conscience prompted him to tell what he saw," admitted to state authorities that "his mother's spirit really demanded that he help clear the case."

A defense motion for a continuance, despite the fact that a jury has been chosen, was to be ruled upon this morning.

Yates' married remains were found last November in the ashes of a log cabin not far from the Yates home.

A coroner's jury of which Erwin was a member, absolved both the present defendants of all blame in the affair.

The case was recorded as an "unsolved mystery." Then, one day, Erwin stepped forward and told that he had seen Powell at the Yates home, and that he had heard a shot.

Sometime later, he declared, he saw Mrs. Yates and Powell driving toward the log cabin—and alleged that they had a "bundle" with them. He declared that the "spirit of his mother" prompted him to "tell all" after he had been a party to the exonerated of the two.

Mrs. Yates, apparently unworried by the charge against her, entered the court today with her seventeen-month-old baby, seemingly not caring whether the trial was continued.

Crowds that could not jam into the court room, braved the chilly air outside and hundreds gathered on the spacious lawn in the hope of hearing more about the "ghosts."

SQUIRE PLEADS NOT GUILTY OF CHARGE

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 1.—Fred Anthony, justice of the peace of Dennison, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Judge Paul Jones in federal court here today on an indictment charging him with alleged extortion in connection with prohibition activities.

Anthony was indicted last week with three others after it had been charged that he "shook down" bootleggers in Tuscarawas County.

DENISON STUDENTS ASSIST FIREMEN IN GRANVILLE BLAZE

Eight Businesses Are Swept by Early Morning Fire

GRANVILLE, O., Feb. 1.—More than 200 students of Denison University here today aided Newark and Granville firemen in putting out flames which destroyed the Wilson Block and eight business establishments here early today. Loss was estimated at approximately $52,000.

Individual losses were estimated as follows: The College Inn tea room and restaurant, $10,000; Kroger grocery, $10,000; James R. Morrow's Mortuary, $10,000; Minerva Confectionery, $6,000; the Student Restaurant, $6,000; Butcher's Bakery, $3,000; R. P. Johnson's Dry Cleaning Establishment, $1,500, and Mrs. Clara Owen's Garage, $1,000.

Work of the firemen was handicapped by three explosions, attributed to natural gas leaks, before the gas could be soured.

The Wilson Block is located on the south side of Broadway, in the heart of Granville. The fire was discovered shortly before 6 a. m. by Nightwatchman Tim Miley in the kitchen of the student restaurant. It was about 8 a. m. before the flames were extinguished.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon and their two children, living over Gordon's store, and undertaker Morrow, who lived above his undertaking establishment, all fled from their homes, unharmed.

MORO REBELLION IN MANILA IS BROKEN

MANILA, Feb. 1.—Government officials today believed the rebellion of Datu Tahi, Moro chieftain, was completely broken. Following an engagement between the constabulary and the Moro forces, Tahi fled leaving behind him thirty-five dead and a large number of wounded.

Princess Tarhata Kiram, former student of the University of Illinois and the fourth of the wives of Tahi, is believed to be safe with her father, the Sultan of Sulu.

The attack of constabulary was precipitated by Tahi's refusal to pay taxes and his objections against other government measures.

Colonel Stevens led the constabulary into action. But one member of the government forces, a sergeant, was injured in the skirmish.

BRITISH CUSTOMS CHIEF DISMISSED

PEKING, Feb. 1.—A financial crisis was created in China today by the dismissal from office of Sir Francis Aglen, British inspector-general of Chinese customs, who was turned out by the officials of the Peking government. The cause of Sir Francis' dismissal was his refusal to collect the surtaxes provided for in the Washington protocol of 1921, as ordered by Marshal Chang Tso-Lin.

The inspector-general's dismissal on Chinese New Year, which is general settlement day in China, had a disastrous effect on both domestic and foreign loans.

Tsai Ting-Kan, director-general of the revenue council resigned simultaneously with Sir Francis' dismissal.

APPOINTS JUDGE

Lucas County, resigned The governor, also, selected Attorney Charles Lemmon, Toledo to succeed Judge Gosline on the Toledo municipal bench. Gosline and Lemmon are Democrats.

WASHINGTON WITH WILE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—There's just a little of the irony of fate in the fact that the nationalist who is now in the grim revolt against "foreign devils" is a very large extent captained by young Chinese educated in the west. Many of them imbibed the spirit of militant democracy through their experiences at American colleges and universities. In hundreds of cases they got this training at the expense of the United States.

Our country was the first of the great powers to return to China the $12,000,000 odd of Boxer indemnities extorted from the old Peking government twenty-five or twenty-six years ago. In gratitude for that act of American magnanimity, the Chinese announced their purpose of utilizing the first of their purpose of sending selected young men to the United States for education. Today, all over distracted China, especially in the south, whence the nationalist drive derives its power, American-bred sons of Cathay are in the forefront of the movement to shake off the shackles which have so long manacled the sleeping giant of the east.

Why Iceland's Wet.
It is erroneously announced that Iceland, the Arctic island of which the King of Denmark is the ruler, has just gone "wet." She "got that way" four years ago. The circumstances may well give pause to optimists who think that foreign pressure can never, never drag Uncle Sam off the water-wagon.

It appears that Iceland has now established its first brewery. But it also develops that the island was compelled to choose between wetness and impoverishment as long ago as 1922. Spain seems to be Iceland's best customer for the island's principal product, dried fish. So the Spanish, who export enormous quantities of their wine, submitted an ultimatum to the little government at Reykjavik, to the effect that the Icelanders had to drink Spanish wine or the Spanish would buy no more of Iceland's fish.

Multiplex Radio in Limelight.
Secretary Hoover has submitted to the senate a more than ordinarily interesting communication on the subject of multiplex telegraphy and telephony. It is a reply to a resolution presented by Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Montana. The resolution called for information about the discovery and extent of use of the system by which nationwide radio hook-ups are made and simultaneous transmission of many telephone conversations and telegraph messages is possible on the same line.

The invention of multiplex telegraphy and telephony, or "wired wireless," as he calls it, is Maj. Gen. George O. Squier of Washington, formerly chief signal officer of the United States army. Gen. Squier has been engaged in protracted litigation over the use of his patents by the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.
The Hoover letter to the senate, just issued as a public document, contains a dramatic account by Gen. Squier of the history of the electrical "carrier art." The secretary of commerce expresses no opinion on the merits of Gen. Squier's claims. Mr. Hoover informs the senate that he can only submit statements filed with him by the high contesting parties.

Cabinet in Congress Sought.
Events of the current session of congress are reviving an oft-mentioned plan for some form of cabinet representation on the floors of the house and senate. Such a modified scheme of "parliamentary government" was a pet project of the late Franklin K. Lane.
An administration leader remarked to this observer that President Coolidge might have fared quite differently on such occasions as the Mexican-Nicaraguan muddle, the Lausanne treaty fight, and the Woods confirmation controversy.

Income Tax Returns Simplified By Article By Expert For This Paper

This is the first of a series of articles by an expert, simplifying income tax regulations and making it easy for readers of the Gazette and Republican to fill out returns. Problems of various classes of persons are discussed in separate installments, so if answers to your questions are not supplied today, look for them in succeeding issues of this paper.

By FRED R. RIPLEY
Except as an emergency measure in times of war, income taxation by the federal government began in 1894 under a law that subsequently was held unconstitutional. To remedy the situation, a constitutional amendment was adopted on Feb. 25, 1913.

All our present income taxation therefore dates from March 1, 1913. The first law passed under the amendment went into effect in 1913. The World war caused changes in the law to increase the revenue derived from the tax.
Later the law was amended, partly to reduce the rates and partly to improve the equitable application of its provisions. The latest change, that of 1926, was made applicable to the income of 1925, and taxpayers, therefore, have paid taxes under its provisions.
However, late in the fall of 1926,

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"
Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drug store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Do You Have These Symptoms?

Folks Near or Past Forty Should Watch These Danger Signs

Dizziness, headaches, shortness of breath, distress after eating, gas in stomach and bowels, pressure or sharp pains in right side that often shoot through to the back, coated tongue, bad breath, lack of ambition, weakness, nervousness and nights of restless misery caused by bad dreams or inability to sleep—these are some of "The Danger Signals" indicating hepatic torpidity, gall stones or gall bladder inflammation.
Thousands of lives have been wrecked and other thousands made thoroughly miserable—because they did not heed these warning signs in time. Women in their "forties" are particularly liable to these troubles and hundreds who think they have high blood pressure are simply suffering from hepatic torpidity or gall bladder inflammation.

Don't take a chance on gall stones and don't let your system get filled with poison that may cause months or even years of miserable ill health. At the very first warning sign ask Sayre's Drug Store or any other good druggist for "Klax-Ko" tablets and be assured of swift and positive relief or your money promptly refunded. Klax-Ko tablets have brought new life and health to hundreds who thought they had some dangerous internal trouble—and in many instances have saved the pain and expense of an operation for gall stones. Ten days use will convince you of their honest value in your particular case. Try them today!

with husband or wife, must make a return.

In the case of a married person, living with husband or wife, a return is required if the net income for the taxable year is $3,500 or over. However, if an individual has a gross income of $5,000 or over, he must make a return regardless of the amount of his net income.

In the case of a husband and wife living together no return need be made unless their aggregate gross income for the taxable year is at least $5,000, or their aggregate net income is at least $3,500.

In cases where the husband and wife each have substantial separate incomes, it will often be found advantageous to file separate returns so that each gets the benefits of the lower brackets of normal and surtax. A husband and wife may elect to file a joint return for one year and separate returns for the next, or vice versa.

Where one spouse dies prior to the last day of the taxable year the survivor should not include the income of the deceased in a joint return. Such income should be included in a return for the deceased by the executor or administrator. Earnings of a minor unless he has been emancipated, must be included in the parent's return.

Mr. Ripley will continue his explanation of the income tax regulations in tomorrow's issue of the Gazette and Republican.

PAPER ON MOHAMMED GIVEN BEFORE SOCIETY

"Mohammed, the founder of Islam" was the subject of a most interesting and instructive paper presented by Miss Margaret Moorehead, before the Lagh Foreign Missionary Society of Trinity M. E. Church, at the home of Mrs. Theophil White, Monday evening.

"The Bible of Islam or Mohammedanism" is the "Koran," Miss Moorehead explained. "The Koran" is held to be divine authority, as having been revealed to Mohammed by the Angel Gabriel. Several of the books of the Christian Bible are found in the Koran but in a corrupted form. The Christian prophets are honored, but Mohammed superseded them all as the last and greatest. Although the youngest religion next to Christianity, Islam has more followers than any other religion, and is the greatest barrier to the progress of Christianity in the countries where it is entrenched.

Miss Moorehead's paper was well given and received with interest. Miss Emma Elbright gave a short account of a mission school in China.

Mrs. J. J. Stout led devotions, reading a chapter from Bruce Barton's "The Man Nobody Knows." Mrs. Homer Spahr, and Mrs. Leigh Bickett sang duet. The regular business was conducted and a letter was read by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. M. W. Monroe, from the school in China, where the society sent a Christmas box which reached there December 23.

The society adjourned and a social hour followed with a refreshment course served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. E. P. Hamlin, Mrs. Wilbur Street, Mrs. George L. White, Mrs. Charles Thompson, Miss Henryetta Logan, Miss Cora Barnett and Miss Wella Shipley. Lal Bagh will meet with Mrs. Clara G. Reisinger, Monday, March 7, with Mrs. Monroe's group in charge.

WHAT to WEAR and How to WEAR IT

By LUCY CLAIRE

Favorite Fashion Adviser of the Smart Set

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 1.—Yesterday I concentrated on the sport mode here and I am more impressed by its importance each day. But because Palm Beach fashions are the forerunner of our own spring season, I am going to cover the entire mode for you.

I have shown you here the frocks of morning, afternoon and evening, translated into colors and fabrics suitable for southern wear.

Notice the sport frock first for it embodies all of the important principles of line and cut, at the same time introducing a new note in fabrics and colored prints. Last season on the Riviera I was impressed with the imminent return of voile and linen in sport costumes. Now, I find this same tendency here, not by any means as popular as silk, but more smart just because of its novelty.

The blouse of this costume is made of fine cut-work linen with collar, cuffs, and banding of the skirt material. This, you will note, is printed silk, but not as we have been wearing it for the pattern is a small conventional all-over design rather than the wide bordered prints which have enjoyed such a long reign of popularity in past seasons.

I cannot stress too emphatically the primary consideration of line and cut. As an illustration of this, look at the afternoon frock at the right. It might have been cut from the same pattern as the sport dress, but it has been translated into fabrics suitable for the formality of afternoon occasions. I have shown you how full the accordion pleated skirt of black satin is, but its tight pleating enables it to retain the close silhouette. The blouse is of soft silk lace in ecru tint and again you find the flower, bolt, and cuffs repeat the color and fabric of the skirt.

These two models I consider exceptionally good in line and cut. The color combinations and toning you can adjust to your individual requirements.

Contrary to the ponderous formality of our winter evening mode, southern nights seem to demand a fresh simplicity. Chiffon, taffeta, and georgette crepe all lend themselves to this effect. The evening gown I have shown in the center is truly indicative of the spirit of the mode for its sheerness of texture and delicacy of coloring seem to waft a breath of coolness through the humid tropical night.

In my next article I will tell you about some of the marked changes in coiffures I have observed and let me say right here—you had better forego that next trim of the locks for long hair is certainly coming back.

Lucy Claire

Mr. and Mrs. John Meno, Jamestown, are the parents of a son, weighing eight pounds, born early Tuesday morning.

Miss Lucille Beatty entertained Alpha Theta Chapter, Delta Theta Tau Sorority, at her home on N. Detroit St., Monday evening. The usual business meeting was held, followed by a social time.

Mr. W. B. Bryson, retiring president of the Green County Farm Bureau and district director, with Mr. A. L. Flatter, and Mr. David C. Brudette, delegates of the county body are attending Farmers' Week at Columbus, Mr. J. R. Kimber, county extension agent, left Tuesday afternoon to attend the sessions during the remainder of the week.

INFANTRY COMPANY CELEBRATES WITH BANQUET AT ARMORY

In celebration of the success of a membership drive to increase the local guard unit to its full peace-time strength, members of Company L, 147th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, enjoyed a banquet at the Armory Monday night.

Colonel Simon Ross, Cincinnati, commandant of 147th Infantry, Captain Lytle, Cincinnati, infantry adjutant, and Captain Finley, Cincinnati, army federal instructor, were honor guests.

Impromptu talks were heard and music was furnished by the O. S. and S. O. Home Cadet Band. A refreshment course preceded the speeches.

Captain Ozni H. Cornwell, who succeeded Captain L. V. John as commandant of the local guard unit, announces he has received permission to recruit the company to ninety-three members whereas the former quota was sixty three. The drive for new members will be continued.

Terms of thirty-three members recently expired leaving the company undermanned and in the recent campaign thirty-six new members were obtained.

Captain Cornwell also disclosed at the meeting plans for obtaining a federal appropriation to construct a new Armory in Xenia for use of the company. Five armories, each to cost between $60,000 and $420,000, are to be built in Ohio and Xenia is one of seven Ohio cities named for such a building.

The stipulation is made by the government that the site for the Armory must first be donated by the city so favored or acquired in some other manner. Captain Cornwell believes that an Armory for Xenia is assured if the property blocks of the Court House, several stories are under consideration and plans are also under way for making a drive for the property needed before an appropriation can be obtained for the building. Co-operation of business men of the city will be sought.

After months of delay due to a belated property re-appraisal in the county, County Treasurer Frank A. Jackson began collecting taxes for the first half of 1926 from Xenia city tax-payers Tuesday.

The appraisal sent the treasurer and his force of clerks back several months in the work of collection and the books could not be placed in condition to begin receiving taxes until Tuesday.

H. L. SAYRE Druggist Xenia, Ohio

000, are to be built in Ohio and Xenia is one of seven Ohio cities named for such a building. The stipulation is made by the government that the site for the Armory must first be donated by the city so favored or acquired in some other manner. Captain Cornwell believes that an Armory for Xenia is assured if the property blocks of the Court House, several stories are under consideration and plans are also under way for making a drive for the property needed before an appropriation can be obtained for the building. Co-operation of business men of the city will be sought.

After months of delay due to a belated property re-appraisal in the county, County Treasurer Frank A. Jackson began collecting taxes for the first half of 1926 from Xenia city tax-payers Tuesday.

Central Tossers Facing Test

Central High School's "wonder team" with eight victories to its credit in as many games, has reached a point on its fourteen-game schedule where it is a case of sink or swim.

Exactly how strong Coach Kolb's fighting band of warriors are this season will be determined this week when Eaton and Middletown are played on successive nights.

Eaton will appear here Friday night and the Blue and White will engage the Middies on the big Middletown floor Saturday night.

The latter game will be the real test of the year, for Middletown, also having a record of eight straight victories, is rated as one of the strongest teams in the state. The unusually large floor will also be a handicap and Coach Kolb is preparing to take steps to remedy this by arranging to practice on a floor of greater dimensions than that at Central gym.

Xenia must show radical improvement in the next few days to win the week-end tilts. The team played good basketball to trounce Miamisburg last week but the great fault of the players was their inability to locate the basket.

The team looked like an on-and-off team, playing like wonders one night and then like green men the next. In short it went stale, a kind of mid-season slump.

Central players use a short pass and pivot style of play almost to perfection. The school has a smooth aggregation and a fighting spirit that has pulled it through many difficulties and turned several almost certain defeats into victories. This should come in handy this week-end.

To choose an individual star from the team would be an injustice to the other members because the style of play adopted by the Blue and White emphasizes team-work.

Eaton will be a dark horse Friday. The team has a faculty for giving Central exceedingly close games. Under the eighteenth-century rule, Eaton lost Druley, its star high-point man last week, and this should increase Xenia's chances for winning at least one of the two games. Middletown is something else again but the teams are ideally matched and there is more exciting struggle we can think of than the anticipated Central-Middletown contest Saturday.

families of Fayette County and had day afternoon at the Willis home, with interment in Milledgeville

PATRIOTIC MOVIES WILL BE PRESENTED BY D. A. R. CHAPTER

Catharine Greene Chapter,
Daughters of the American Revolution is among Ohio Chapters which will present two patriotic motion pictures, the Chronicles of American Photography, which have been produced by the Yale University Press, and which will appear at the Bijou Theater, February 9.

The pictures will be shown at a special matinee for school children and at both shows in the evening.
Half of the proceeds will be given by the D. A. R. to the Xenia Federated Parent-Teacher Association, and the D. A. R. will pay all expenses of the showing.

The pictures are "The Eve of the Revolution" and "The Declaration of Independence." "The Eve of the Revolution" is in three reels, depicting the most significant incidents of the decade of 1765-1775 and through these interpreting the state of mind of the people as the movement for independence gained impetus. In detail it re-creates scenes incident to the Stamp Act and the stand against "taxation without representation," also re-creating the
"Boston Massacre," the "Boston Tea Party," the Salem Assembly, the rides of Paul Revere and William Dawes, Jr., the sharp military clashes at Lexington Green and Concord Bridge and the retreat of the British.

"The Declaration of Independence" in three reels is an account of the efforts of a small group of patriots to bring about a unanimous vote in favor of independence which reveals the three outstanding attitudes of public opinion in 1776.

"THAT'S THE QUESTION"

They say that curiosity killed a cat, but a lot of them are still hiding behind the living room curtains!

Men like to know everything possible about their own business; women know everything impossible about the other fellows!

The best way to feather your nest is to tar the other man. What you have on him makes it hard for him to shake off.

Women get friend husband to ask for a raise and then they use it up. Men are contented with their lot, but a woman wants to build a house on it!

If you never ask questions you never know anything, and if you do, you know too much. Just it's cute for the little woman to hang onto his words; afterwards he wants her to hang onto his money!

The only time that women don't ask husband questions is when they don't hear them come in!

When a man says "I do" he doesn't mean absolutely anything!

The best reason that children should be seen and not heard is that they are liable to ask papa a lot of things he can't answer!

Many a man with a long face gives a short answer. When a woman answers a question it runs to three editions.

A lot of men hate to go home before they have made up a good story. And a lot of times the around the corner may be sunshine, or a bill collector. Women ask a lot of questions that men can't answer, but a ten-dollar bill takes care of most of them.

Man is the answer to the maid's prayer, only he's the one on his knees.

Women are always nudging their husbands and telling them to stop and ask the way. Men would rather go wrong than detour.

A woman's favorite question is "Ask that man," and a husband's favorite answer is to drive right on!

Before marriage a man thinks

"make-up" isn't even kiss-proof!

A woman will believe anything a man tells her before marriage. Afterward she believes what every other man tells her!

It seems impossible that man ever "pops the question." But a woman knows all the answers! She holds the "pony" to the book of life and a man gets no chance to cheat!

Curiosity is a great thing, it's responsible for a great many discoveries, among them the one that no woman ever keeps a secret!

Woman asks and man answers—if he doesn't she simply takes him without a word!

© JOHNSON FEATURES INC. 1926

Then she remembered that she had just made up her mind never to let him touch her again—that she was going to break with him. She went into Mrs. Mangan's spotless white bathroom, and scrubbed her skin until not a bit of the scent clung to it.

She put on an old blue serge dress and a tiny blue felt hat, and went down stairs at ten minutes to six to wait for Gus.

"I look terrible," she told her reflection in the hall mirror. But when you are twenty-two and have wide-set brown eyes and yellow hair and skin like magnolia petals, to say nothing of a heart-shaped mouth and teeth that have never known an ache, it is not so easy to look unattractive and uninteresting. Just leavin' off perfume and lip-stick will not turn the trick.

And that, perhaps, was why Bobbie looked lovelier than usual that night to Gus MacCloud, who was as much in love with her as it was possible for him to be in love with anyone.

CHAPTER XXIX

"Where do you want to go to eat?" Gus asked her, as she stood there with one foot on the step of the cream-colored roadster. It was shaking and trembling, great monster that it was, as if it were eager to be off.

Bobbie gave her head a little shake. "Oh, I don't know," she answered, trying to make her voice hard and cold. "I want to talk to you tonight, Gus. Let's go to one of those places where you sit side by side on stools. We can talk so much more easily in a place like that."

He gave a short puzzled laugh. "What's the matter with you, Bobbie? You've been queer all day," he said easily, and pulled her down beside him. He slammed the door and they started down through the lamp-lit dusk of the street.

At Sunset boulevard he turned west, and started up toward the hills, purplish brown and mysterious at that time of day. Lights were patterned against them, showing where the narrow roads wound to their tops.

Bobbie knew where he was taking her. She knew the road, but she did not utter a word of protest. There were no lights in the windows, as the cream-colored roadster swung up the steep driveway and stopped at the door.

But on the other side of the house, the windows of the Schultz houses showed like rectangles of gold against the soft starry darkness. From them came the sound of music, and a child's voice laughing.

There was happiness for you, said Bobbie to herself, and yet Gus maintained that picture people couldn't marry and be happy.

"The Japs are gone, I guess. I told them I wouldn't be home for dinner," Gus whispered as he unlocked the door of the dark silent house.

They went in, and he switched on the lights in the living room with its great arched window that overlooked the town spread out below like a spangled veil.

"Run upstairs and take off your hat," he went on carelessly. "I'll go on out into the kitchen and see what I can rustle up in the way of food."

He rustled up quite a lot of it. A china bowl of cold chicken salad with mayonnaise piled on the top of it, a glass pitcher of iced coffee, poppy-seed rolls and a Lady Baltimore cake.

They ate it, sitting at the tiny table before the great window, and then Gus lit a cigaret and leaned back comfortably in his arm-chair.

"All right, Bobbie, shoot! What was it you had on your mind?" "You," said Bobbie, and her voice was steady. "I wanted, first of all, to ask you about some gossip I happened to hear today. It is true that you have a wife, who's divorcing you, and a little girl?"

She was surprised that her words could be so clear when inside she was all jumbled and confused and upset.

"Yes," he said, so quickly that the little word made her jump. "He got up and came around the table to her. He put his hands on her shoulders, pressing them with his fingers."

She knew what he was going to do. He was going to tell her how much he loved her, and then he would kiss her, and she would forget all about the wife back east and the little daughter. She would forget how he could be cold and hard and aloof when he saw her in the studio, keeping her in her place as an extra girl during working hours no matter what she might be to him, afterward.

"No!" she said, and she got up and faced him, outlined against the main wall of the room like some lovely little statuette made of tinted porcelain.

"No—I don't want you to touch me, Gus," she said, and suddenly all her confusion was gone. She knew just what she had to say to him, and how to say it.

"You're married, Gus, and I'm not. And I haven't any business being here with you. It never was right for me to come, even before I knew that you're still married."

He looked at her, and then turned toward the window, his hands in his pockets. "And, anyway, I don't like the way you treat me," she went on in that clear firm voice. "You can't forget that you're going to have a picture to direct one of these days, and that I'm an extra girl. And I'm not used to being treated that way by people. Back home—"

"Yes, back home!" He turned on her suddenly, "You can't forget that you're here in Hollywood, where people are getting away from their narrow fool notions about never looking at one another if they happen to be married—I ask you, what difference does it make to anyone if you come up here to supper? My wife doesn't know it and doesn't care—"

"I care!" Bobbie interrupted him, her nostrils widening and her chin going up proudly. "I care too much for myself to run around with a man who still has a wife. I care too much for myself."

SHE CAUGHT JUST A GLIMPSE OF THE GIRL'S FACE

ing her up as if she had been a palm-leaf fan.

He carried her across the wide room to the sofa, and set her there in the corner of it. He put his hands on either side of her face, and as he kissed her she tasted the salt of her own tears on his mouth.

"Little—silly—girl," he said huskily, holding her close to him, "worrying about her respectability!" He kissed her eyelids. "Worrying because I don't make love to her on the set, with a lot of hoodlums looking on!"

Bobbie opened her big eyes. "I don't expect you to make love to me in the studio," she said in a smothered voice, "but you might at least speak decently to me—I notice that you hang around Monica a lot lately. But then, she's a featured player." An' her jealousy of Monica was in her tone.

She pushed him away from her. Here she was, doing the very thing she had made up her mind not to do. Letting Gus make love to her and talk her out of her decision.

"I'm going home," she said sharply, and got up from the deep couch with its piled silk cushions of Chinese red and apricot and gold.

Gus got up, too. "I'm going to take you home," he echoed her. "The fact of the whole thing is that you don't trust me. You think I'm fooling with you and humiliating you—and if you're off me, it's all right with me."

He walked out of the house, and through the open door she heard him get into his car and start the motor. It hummed on. She knew he was waiting for her to come.

She ran upstairs to the guest-room with its walls and draperies of ashes-of-roses, and its long mirrors, and lace-hung dressing table. She wondered now if Gus's sister really had furnished the house for him, or if his wife had done it. Perhaps she had lived here with him in Hollywood, in this very house!

She ran out of it, and got into the car. The drive home was over in a few minutes, for Gus drove like a madman—just as he had driven that first night when they had gone up into the hills. He cut corners, took them on two wheels, and dashed up Las Palmas street as if Satan were behind him.

"Goodnight," Bobbie said to him breathlessly, as she got out. But he was gone almost as soon as her feet touched the ground—gone with a roar and a rush.

"And gone for good, I suppose," Bobbie said to herself as she watched the car vanish around the corner. She didn't know whether she wanted to laugh or to cry. But she did both as she went up Mrs. Mangan's polished stairs and across the clean bare hall into her own room.

The next day she happened to bump into Lottie Schultz. She was on her way to a jeweler's shop on the boulevard to sell one of Aunt Gertrude's dull old diamonds when she saw her walking along just ahead of her. She turned suddenly to drop some coins into a Santa Claus box on a corner, and it was then that she saw Bobbie. "Oh, hello!" she said in her bright pleasant voice, and caught her hands in her own white-gloved ones. "I'm out Christmas shopping. What are you doing?"

"I'm selling diamonds," Bobbie laughed back at her. She didn't feel particularly happy. Indeed, she felt very unhappy because she had to sell one of the stones, but it was impossible to be blue in the face of Lottie Schultz's gayety and sweetness.

"Selling diamonds? What on earth do you mean?" Mrs. Schultz asked, and as they walked along together Bobbie told how her money had gone, dollar by dollar.

"Let's see that ring," she said then, and Bobbie handed it to her. She looked at it, turning it over and over in her gloved fingers.

"Look here," she said at last, glancing up at Bobbie, "you won't get much for this. It's worth a lot, but the stones have that old-fashioned cutting. Why don't you let me lend you some money on it?"

But Bobbie shook her golden head. "If only I could get some steady work," she said to herself when Lottie Schultz had left her at the door of the jewelry shop.

Just as she was turning to go in, she stopped and swung around again to face the street. Gus MacCloud's cream-colored roadster was streaking by, with Gus in it, hatless and careless as usual. There was a girl beside him—and Bobbie caught just a flying glimpse of her face. A brown pointed sassy face with blue eyes and a red, red mouth that was wide and laughing. Monica's face!

LEHR FESS RESIGNS HOUSE POSITION TO PRACTICE OHIO LAW

Resignation of Lehr Fess, eldest son of United States Senator S. D. Fess, Yellow Springs, after nine years of service as parliamentarian of the national House of Representatives, was announced Tuesday by Speaker Nicholas Longworth, Cincinnati, to become effective next December 31.

Mr. Fess is to begin the practice of law and will join the law firm of Tyler, McMahon, Smith and Wilson, in Toledo, O. Speaker Longworth has appointed Lewis Deschler, Chillicothe, O., to take up the study of Fess' duties. Deschler has been time clerk of the House for the last year.

Fess was appointed by Speaker Frederick H. Gillett in March, 1919, and was re-appointed when Longworth succeeded Gillett in December, 1925.

High tributes to the retiring parliamentarian were paid in the House Monday when the disclosure of Fess' intention to resign at the close of this session was made by Speaker Longworth, who also asked adoption of a resolution authorizing the appointment of Deschler as assistant parliamentarian until he actually succeeds Fess January 1, 1928.

Amid applause the speaker described Fess as "one of the first authorities on parliamentary law in America today," adding "It is a great loss to the House and it certainly is a great loss to me." Representative Finis J. Garrett, of Tennessee, Democratic leader, following the speaker, said that none of the eight parliamentarians he had known during his twenty years of service in the House surpassed Fess in his mastery of his job.

CURFEW BELL MAY BE RESURRECTED

LIMA, O., Feb. 1.—The old curfew bell which has reposed in the city's attic for several years, may be dusted and put to work again, if the youth of this community doesn't mend its ways.

Complaints of alleged misconduct on the part of boys and girls have been referred to Police Chief Kipker, and if his men fail to curb these pranks, the city commission may revive the curfew law repealed in 1918.
